For each document, there is a hyperlink that redirects to the correct page. The form takes 5 minutes to load, but it still seems to create the Hyperlink field in the background, based on my logs. This might cause two problems: The form will get submitted even before the document is created. (The form is still only visible for 5 minutes.) The HTML part of the form is written as plain text, as most of the questions are already written and formatted. Is there a way to perform the "Click" part of the "GetUrl" or "OnOpen" function without waiting for the form to load, so I can just submit the form? A: I found a solution for the latter issue by getting the selected URL (or rather, a URL fragment) before the form is submitted, and then removing that fragment from the URL. Here's the code: //Define the URL the form is sending to. var incomingUrl = GetUrl(FName, FFormID, TFormID); //Create the URL to the corresponding document. var url = s.FormItems.Item(CurrentFormID, hyperlinkname).FormattedValue; //Remove the fragment. url = url.Substring(0, url.IndexOf("#")); ... /** * Gets the URL for a form field. * @ 6a5afdab4c
